

Space technologies

for solving global problems of mankind

Nail Shiyatov
IU9-21B

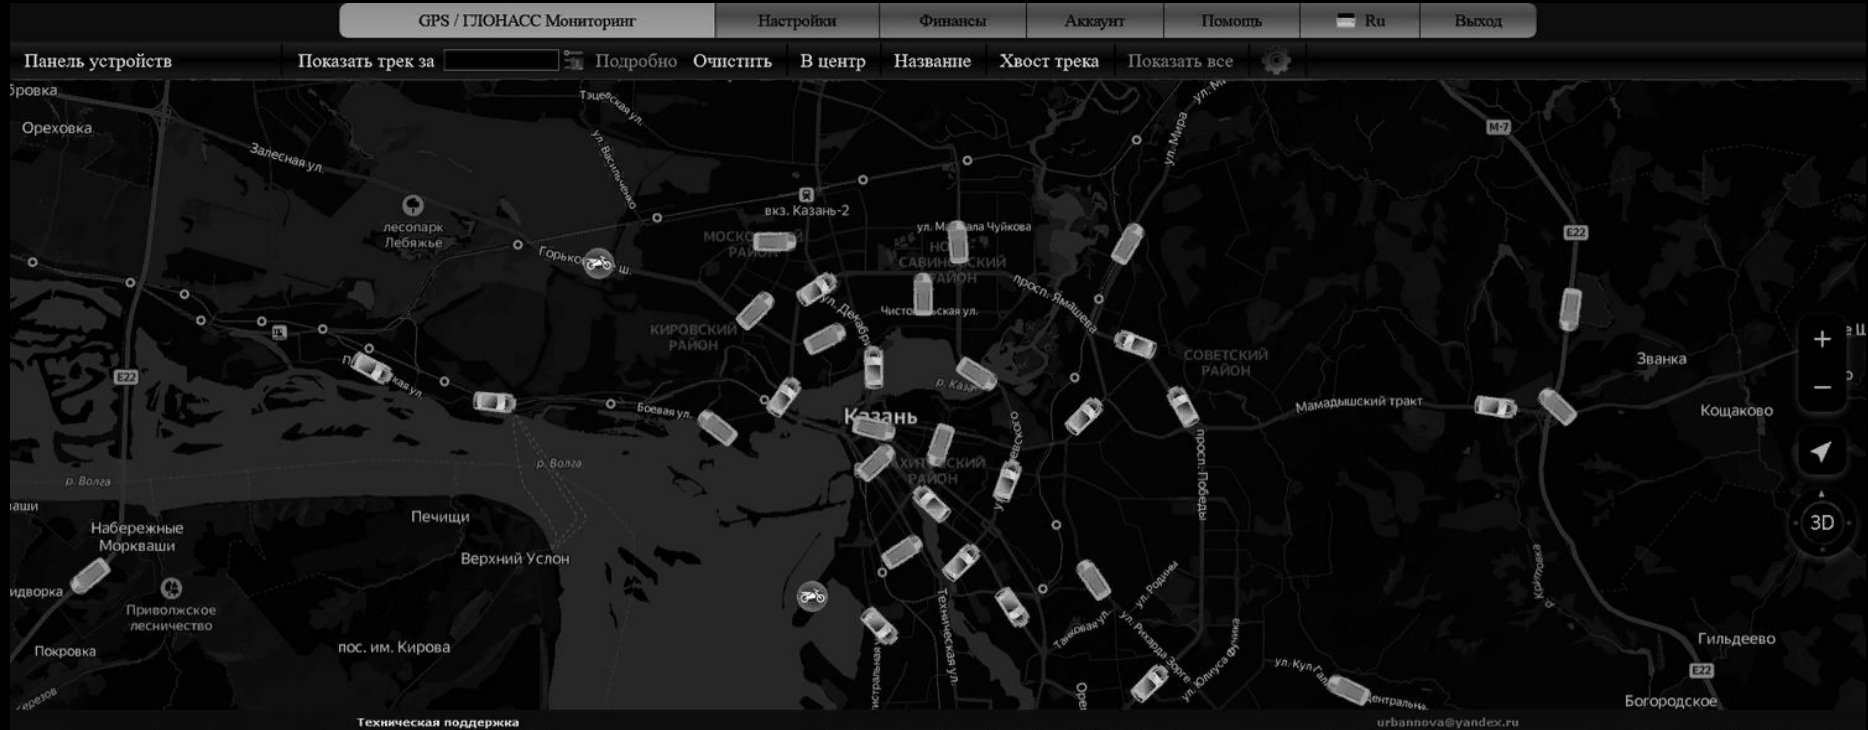

Space technologies for climate change research

Space technologies for agriculture

Preventing a global population crisis

Conclusion

Space technologies can help humanity solve many global problems that stand in its way. They can lead to greater economic stability, better quality of life, and a safer future for our planet.

